

Your Perfect Position

Everyone has individual preferences about work. Some of us like to work inside and others like to be outside. Some of us like to write and others like to hammer nails. You need to identify your own preferences to know what kind of job you would enjoy. You're going to be working most of your life and you will be much happier if you understand yourself and what you like to do.

Complete the following chart for yourself. In the first column we've provided some criteria that may be important for you in finding your perfect position. In the second column you can write in specifics related to those criteria and in the third column, identify some employers who hire people to do the kind of work you want to do.
